"We're extremely pleased with the design and content of The Colony Convention & Visitors Bureau website" stated Diane Baxter, Communications Director for the City of The Colony. "It delivers our message accurately and passionately, while providing the ultimate planning vehicle for our visitors. Christie Hartwell, CVB Coordinator and Dallas RedSpot Design have created a site that favorably showcases our city and all it has to offer. Meeting and event planners will find much needed information in a section devoted to this specific market. They can learn about our major venues, meeting facilities, and how the CVB can assist in planning their next meeting or sporting event."

Every attraction, hotel, event, sporting venue, community park as well as meeting and event space includes a photo and detailed description – making travel planning so much easier. With our comprehensive list, there's no guessing, we've done all the work for you.

Potential visitors and residents alike can sign up for electronic news - a quarterly newsletter including information about upcoming events, travel information, special offers, new web site and service updates and other information relating to The Colony.
